

1230 TWC Diamonds Special News

James Bond gets..... the Diamonds and the Girls

The scene was set, 97 business women (and 3 or 4 chaps) sipped their champagne, bought raffle tickets and eagerly awaited the start of 1230 Diamonds are Forever! fashion show in association with Frank Usher Fashions. Special Guest and Patron of Ovacome, Jenny Agutter chatted and mingled with those admiring the stunning view from the truly awesome Gherkin tower.

Quietly, word reached 1230, the surprise guest was unwell and couldn't make the event. We didn't panic, much! Coming through the doorway, Clare spotted an unsuspecting gentleman—"Would you like to be our James Bond for the day?" asked Jackie. Gallantly, Eoin McDonagh, Recruitment Officer with our hosts Abbey Services, agreed.

With great aplomb and a James Bond swagger here and there, Eoin escorted the gorgeous Frank Usher models in their equally gorgeous outfits up and down the catwalk.

Wearing beautiful dresses, hats and jewellery the Frank Usher models sashayed to the James Bond themed music displaying the striking outfits to the back-drop of the Gherkin window and London at night.

Amongst the impressive list of raffle prizes were those generously donated by 1230 member Fiona Coppard, a beautiful bracelet from her After Dark Electra collection which was won by Pauline Brown of Coutts & Co, and deliciously sexy silk French Knickers sponsored by Simply French Knickers.com which were won again by a 1230 member, Caroline Aitken of Acorn Communications.

We were equally honoured to have with us Louise Bayne and Noeline Young, CEO and Chairman respectively of Ovacome, the charity supporting those affected by ovarian cancer www.ovacome.org.uk

1230 is extremely proud to be supporting Ovacome for the second year.
